FOREWARD

The University of Eldoret seeks to provide quality higher education, training, research and consultancy in science, agriculture and technology. In addition to participation in on-campus academic activities the University's students and staff can benefit from exchange programmes that offer opportunity to train and do research at partner universities in a different environment and cultural setting. To support this training strategy, the University of Eldoret has a number of agreements with regional and overseas universities, which specifically facilitate exchange or include it as part of a wider Memorandum of Understanding (MOU).

The Student and Staff Exchange Programme Policy provides a framework within which students and staff of the university may engage in exchanges. The policy underlines terms and procedures for executing exchange agreements to the benefit of all parties involved in the programmes. Implementation of this policy is intended to expand the university's cooperation and partnership globally as part of an internationalization strategy. Exchanges have potential to open opportunities for more engagement with partner universities to strengthen training, research and cooperation at international scales. This policy supports establishment of new exchanges while providing for review of existing ones to ensure that exchanges contribute towards realization of the university's strategic focus.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

The University of Eldoret (UoE) is located 10 km from Eldoret town along the Eldoret-Ziwa -Kitale road. The institution was founded in 1946 by the white settlers as a Large Scale Farmers Training Centre. In 1984, it was converted to a teachers' training college and renamed Moi Teachers' Training College to offer Diploma in Education. Due to a double intake crisis, the College was taken over by Moi University in 1990 as a Campus offering life, basic and applied science programmes and renamed Chepkoilel Campus. In August 2010, through Legal Notice No. 125 of 13 August 2010 the Campus was upgraded into a University College with the name Chepkoilel University College, a Constituent College of Moi University. The University was established on 11th February 2013, upon the award of Charter by the then President of the Republic of Kenya, H.E. Hon. Mwai Kibaki. The University owns approximately 1050 ha of agricultural land which makes it ideal for the realization of its mandate as a University of Science, Agriculture and Technological innovations. The University has established a Town Campus in Eldoret Town, housed in MUSCO building and has a Liaison Office in Nairobi located on the 12th Floor of Pension Towers.

The University enrolls qualified students into its competitive programmes with an aim of providing them quality education as well as nurture them to become well-rounded graduates. To achieve this, it has employed competent staff that are expected to continually improve their skills and knowledge as well as develop new ideas that would contribute positively towards enhancing the quality of service delivery to the students. Development and implementation of the Student and Staff Exchange Programme Policy is a deliberate move by the University to enhance the career growth of its students and staff while strengthening the University's international cooperation through academic exchanges. The academic division through the teaching departments and schools will be instrumental in safeguarding the policy in order for its purpose to be realized.

3.0 BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The University encourages and facilitates the exchange of students and staff between universities and partner institutions. International exchange programmes provide opportunities for students to experience studying in a new environment, outside of their usual cultural context. Through exchange activities, students can acquire diverse skills such as the skills for studying and living in a different culture. They may improve proficiency in foreign languages taught in their degree programmes, develop beneficial networks and extend personal competitiveness for future career.

Staff exchange presents an option for enhancing sharing of human resource among universities that seeks to promote integration and internationalization of activities. Staff exchange programmes promote inter-university cooperation through academic mobility to undertake exchange teaching assignments, participate at seminars, workshops and conferences, conduct collaborative research assignments, facilitate the utilization of sabbatical leave appointments and enhance the quality of teaching and research in the partner universities/institutions. The staff exchange programmes provide the partner universities with expertise and facilities in various fields of study where there is deficiency as well as those in need of more collaboration with other institutions. Through these programmes visiting staff have opportunity to gain experience from the hosting institutions, and hence enhancing their career prospects and capacity of their mother institutions.

The responsibility of the partner institutions running an exchange programme depends on the existing agreement between the two institutions. Institutions require clear policies to guide their engagements at all levels to achieve their goals.

4.0 RATIONALE FOR THE POLICY

The University of Eldoret's strategic objective on enhancement of quality of teaching and learning embraces development and strengthening of academic exchange programmes through collaborations & partnerships with relevant institutions and industries. The university signs agreements with international universities and other institutions that involve the exchange of students and staff for short or long periods. The process of selection of students and staff for the exchange programmes should meet the core values of the University particularly fairness and transparency. The University of Eldoret Student and Staff Exchange Policy is to provide the required guidance to ensure integrity of the process and give guidelines for handling such exchanges with regard to logistics, course equivalencies, selection of students and staff, and financing of exchange programmes, but also ensure credit transfer.

5.0 GUIDING PRINCIPLES OF EXCHANGE PROGRAMMES

The Staff and Student Exchange Policy strives to fulfill the following principles:

- i. Globalization and Integration: The University will ensure that the outbound staff and student exchange are linked to programmes that enhance globalization and cultural integration, teaching, learning, research and field exposures.

The university administration will take into consideration whether a proposed exchange agreement would build on existing relations with the partner institution in research or teaching, and gauge its potential for expansion into other areas such as staff exchanges and collaborative research.

- ii. Quality and accreditation: The University will ensure that outbound staff and student exchange enroll in accredited universities/institutions that offer quality programmes, teaching and research to assure development of skills, knowledge and ideas. Such partner institutions will have academic and/or research programmes that the University of Eldoret considers to be suitable for its students.
- iii. Mutual agreement: Exchange programmes will be established by contractual agreements based on negotiated terms of engagement between the University and its partners.
- iv. Reciprocity: In the case of reciprocal exchanges, the University shall only enter into agreement with institutions upon ascertaining that such exchanges are attractive to both outbound and inbound participants. Such an exchange shall proceed, based on a balanced probable number of outgoing and incoming participants over the period specified in the agreement.

- v. Capacity to service: The University will have administrative structures in place to manage each exchange agreement in a manner that it meets its obligations. Each approved exchange shall be coordinated by competent academic staff working in conjunction with the International Programmes Office and the representative of the partner university. To limit the overall administrative load of exchange programmes, the University shall define a manageable number of exchange agreements to service within a given period.
- vi. Competitiveness: The University will ensure that outbound staff and student exchange are selected through a fair, transparent and objective competitive process.
- vii. Equity: The University will ensure that equity is upheld when processing opportunities for the outbound staff and student exchange.
- viii. Workable Schedules: An assessment will be made to ascertain that semester dates and the timing of exchange opportunities are viable with the University's calendar.
- ix. Language Proficiency: Staff and students are encouraged to participate in Exchange programmes conducted in English. Programmes aimed to enhance foreign language teaching and learning as part of degree programmes at the University are also acceptable.

With a goal to develop and retain vibrant staff, the University of Eldoret supports both out-bound and in-bound exchange programmes, especially for faculty. The exchange visits may take the form of research visits, guest lecturer, or visiting faculty to or from partner universities and institutions. An exchange faculty may combine the three depending on the duration of the visit.

- ii. Initial arrangements for exchange will normally be undertaken by the University employee interested in an exchange.

8.0 STRATEGIC FOCUS

The exchange programmes strategy is focused on enhancing the quality of teaching and learning by integrating international academic staff with the University's academic community. This will help in achieving internationalization as a means to positioning the University as a research centre. Exchange programmes present an avenue for new collaborations and research partnerships. Increasing international activity in scientific research, particularly with respect to increased participation in external research programmes and projects, would help increase the number of international scholars, with their inclusion in the implementation of projects and research programmes undertaken by the University's researchers. Expanding the scope of scientific cooperation with researchers' and/ or research institutions abroad will build a strategic network of global partners for the University while at the same time improving the University's Governance and Corporate image through mentorship and benchmarking. The expansion of international cooperation in exchange of academic staff is a way to develop and retain competent human resource. Some exchange programmes could support physical and technological infrastructure establishment at UoE. The exchanges further provide an opportunity for strengthening resource mobilization and utilization in line with the University's strategic plans.
